SECRETARY'S MESSAGE

Completing 70 years of service and excellence in educating young women, Auxilium continues to dedicate itself to the same vision and mission of empowering young women with the zest and passion of its initial stage and catering to the demands of the current times and need of the hour. In the path of St. John Bosco and St. Mary Mazerello, Auxilium strives to illuminate the way and life of young women who enter her portals. Having adopted excellence, integrity, innovation, social responsibility, environmental stewardship, joy and optimism as its core values, the institution is ever on guard to offer the best for everyone associated with it. Auxilium has been a stepping stone to the success of all her students for seven decades and will march forward into this year with the same pursuit for excellence and interest in the future of young women and India.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

At the onset of another of another blissful academic year, forming healthy habits will result in fruitful utility of time and resource. Such healthy habits in students can be cultivated through personal efforts, encouragement from parents and enlightenment through teachers. Constancy and consistency in efforts like regular study, being conscious of one's thoughts, a positive mindset and chanting affirmative mantras such as "I am good", "I am capable", "I can", "I study well", etc. are personally health and academically wealthy attitudes. Persistence and perseverance in developing and nurturing healthy habits will help achieve goals. Students must cherish their existence and appreciate life by being responsible rather than desiring an effortless existence. Human life is bestowed with an abundance of opportunities to discover and develop, to nurture and nourish meaningful habits that enrich life and experiences. Every student must strenuously invest in adopting three health habits each semester to shape character and decide destiny. This way students become fine individuals - "intellectually enlightened, spiritually inspired, emotionally balanced, morally upright, socially committed – integrally formed young women and catalysts of social transformation".
